Battered Axis Army in Flight Across Desert

ANNOUNCED LAST NIGHT

(He had been in Berlin for consultation with Hitler and was present in the Spitzelwagen when the Fuehrer on Sept. 30 pledged that the Wehrmacht would be captured. The German press reported that Rommel left Berlin on Oct. 1.)

The sudden collapse of the Axis defenses was announced last night in a British communique after 12 days of furious fighting in which the Allies were said to have taken a tremendous toll of Rommel's men and equipment.

Today's communique told of a continuing British advance on all sectors of the front. It was reported that anti-tank guns attempting to fight a rearguard action along the coastal road in the north—the main avenue of retreat.

GENERAL ADVANCE

At the southern end of the narrow front, Axis forces were reported still holding out in a few isolated positions, but it appeared that the British army was bypassing these in its general advance.

Allied planes kept the retreating Axis forces under heavy attack and the dwindling armor was kept on the defensive. Except for one re-embarking attack, the sea was broken up by Allied fighters. British ground forces were unopposed from the sea.

Intent on keeping reinforcements from reaching Rommel, Allied bombers and torpedo bombers also blasted at his overseas supply lines, damaging the heavily-laden merchant vessel and scoring three hits on escorting destroyers, the communique said.

SWEEP VICTORY

It reported the destruction of 13 Axis aircraft yesterday and announced the loss of 14 German planes, but the Allied losses were relatively small in proportion to the number of planes destroyed on both sides.

Last night's British communique declared bold that the enemy was "in full retreat."

In these phrases the announcement painted the picture of a sweeping Allied victory, disclosed that Rommel's second command—Gen. von Stumme—had been killed in action and declared the enemy was retreating in complete confusion.

(Canadian allies in the playing a prominent part in the campaign administered the Axis forces. One complete R.C.A.F. fighter squadron is operating on the desert front and in addition there are a number of Canadian fighters with the R.A.F. and a few with the United States Army Air Forces.)

AXIS LOSSES LISTED

Assessing Axis losses for the first time since start of the Allied offensive, the bulletin reported that 600 aircraft knocked out of action, 270 guns wrecked, 100,000 tons of supplies and 50,000 tons of shipping sunk and as much more damaged.

In addition, the communique said, the Allies have captured a total of 9,000 Axis prisoners, including Gen. Ritter von Thoma, commander of the German Air Corps, and a number of other senior German and Italian officers.

It was known the enemy's losses in killed and wounded have been exceptionally high, the communique added.

While the announcement did not reveal the full extent of Allied advance, unofficial advice from the front indicated that ground forces were advancing rapidly on El Daba, site of an important enemy air base 25 miles from the main front, springboard of the current offensive.

DEFENSE DIFFICULT

Observers said that Rommel's chances of making a stand depended largely on the amount of reserves he might have massed at strategic points at Matruh, Halfaya Pass and Salami—all of which boast well-fortified positions.

The defeat which British forces suffered last summer, however, when they were driven back from Egypt, showed that the British were organizing an effective defense.

Bakery Routes To Be Curtailed To Trade Small

TORONTO, Nov. 5.—(CP)—Cecil Morrison, director of bakeries for the price board, yesterday in an address here said that after Nov. 30 any bakery route not selling at least $215 in bakery goods a week or a truck selling less than $225 a week "will come off the list."

"It will take between 1,000 and 1,500 wagons the streets in Canada, but I think it will cut the bakers on the street," he said. The new regulations will be in effect on Oct. 31, he said.

There will be no special or Sunday delivery, and no returns of stale leaved—bakeries, he added.

Civil Industry is Being Studied On Curtailment

MONTREAL, Nov. 3.—(CP)—Studies on concentration of industry have inclined the wartime prices board toward the British system of profit pooling, whereby the continuing plants in an industry are able to assist the curtailment plants. R. F. Chisholm, director of the board's industrial division, said yesterday.

An address prepared for delivery to the advertising and sales executive club, Mr. Chisholm said there is no "secret list" of non-essential industries to be closed under the curtailment plan. Every civilian industry was on the list, for virtually every one contained some element of non-essentiality.

SAME TREATMENT

"The non-essential element in one industry will receive exactly the same treatment as the non-essential element in another," he said. Curtailment was being handled through the existing organization of administrators, each of whom consulted with his advisory committee and other representatives of industry.

A few moves had been made toward overall curtailment, pooling of production and distribution. While more drastic plans were under discussion they would not be implemented until they had been discussed with the industry concerned, and until a clear procedure had been worked out for the handling of whatever items might be required for other purposes.

"Let us be clear that the job is not only to curtail non-essential production but also to maintain essential production," Mr. Chisholm said. "In this respect the administrators of the board may be regarded as attorneys for the consumer."

ADVERTISING ESSENTIAL

The question of advertising and selling had to be dealt with in each individual industry.

"In my opinion it is sheer nonsense to say that all advertising and all selling can be eliminated," he said. "I do not know of any country, except democratic or totalitarian, which has banned newspapers or advertising."

Mr. Chisholm said a lesson in elementary arithmetic now has appeared on the national blackboard.

It was this "Canadian production facilities multiplied by manpower do not equal the requirements of the armed forces plus normal civilian needs."

STANDARDIZE GOODS

The past industrial objective has been to maintain production at the highest possible level consistent with available supply of raw materials. The element of manpower shortage meant that the objective now must be one of maintaining production at the lowest possible level consistent with minimum human requirements and maximum efficiency.

"The first stage in most cases will be a further drastic standardization and simplification of products," Mr. Chisholm said. "The next stage will be elimination of obviously non-essential lines. The third will be an overall curtailment, if necessary, of continuing lines, which may bring with it a concentration of industry."

"Such a procedure ensures that recommendations which come before us will represent the views of the industry concerned. It means that in this phase of the work as in all other phases of prices board operation the voice of business is heard distinctly."

GET CONSIDERATION

There had been apprehension about small business, but the record showed that not a single move had been made in business control which had not fully considered the position of the small merchant and the small business man.

"The fact is that to date small business in general has not been hurt unduly," Mr. Chisholm said. Extra manpower for essential war and civilian industries would come from greater use of women in industry and services; better use of existing labor by concentration on standardized products; better production methods and the elimination of non-essential products and services.

An extension of present rationing might have to be considered. The price ceiling must be maintained along with equitable distribution of supplies under a distribution system which may be altered materially.

In respect of concentration of industry, many plans were being studied, and a number of proposals had been presented in regard to compensation of curtailed industries.

STRIKE FROM AIR Canucks in Thick of Fight As Rommel Legions Smashed

LONDON, Nov. 3.—(CP)—Canadians flying in fighters, fighter-bombers and torpedo-carrying planes are playing a "prominent part" in the Middle East operations which have beaten Axis airpower in the desert to a standstill and forced Rommel's army into "full retreat."

An R.C.A.F. press release from Cairo last night said that in addition to the Canadian fighter squadron which went to Egypt last June there are a number of Canadians fighting with the R.A.F. and a few with the United States army air forces in the desert.

"The Canadians have taken a prominent part in terrific strafing of the enemy's lines, have harassed his supply columns farther back, have bombed his dumps and strong points and have battered his shipping," the R.C.A.F. release said.

DARING EXPLOITS

"In unprecedented blasting from the air to which Rommel's lines were subjected before the latest British advance began, Canadians took a particularly prominent role. The individual exploits of Canadian fliers already are being recorded in large numbers on the Egyptian front and daily are being augmented."

The R.C.A.F. named P. R. V. Manning of Vancouver who wrecked an enemy plane with a torpedo hit and Sgt. K. B. Taylor of Preceville, Sask., who fought three Italian planes with a spare machine gun stuck out of an open turret after the rear gun of his machine was knocked out of action. P. L. H. Curphy of Ottawa also was mentioned for destroying an Italian fighter while escorting Allied bombers on a raid.

"Canadians of both air and ground crews shared the work and credit during the tremendous and intensive bombardment of the enemy's positions at El Alamein and during the countless night and day attacks on the enemy's vital supply columns and landing positions," the release said.

CREWS TIRELESS

"Tireless ground crews working in close harmony with their comrades have maintained all types of aircraft to a high degree of serviceability under harassing conditions of desert warfare."

The release concluded that all men wearing the "Canada" badge on their shoulders—including cooks, wireless operators, clerks, telephonists and others whose jobs are not spectacular—are helping the "big drive" after weeks of painstaking preparation.

Ask Wartime Basis For Flax Industry
 OTTAWA, Nov. 3.—The Canadian Fibre Flax Growers' Association met here yesterday to discuss the request of the British ministry of supply—relayed through the Canadian government—that 7,500 acres of flax be planted in Canada in 1943, and decided to ask the government to put the industry on a wartime basis.

Urge Removal Of Ceiling on Coarse Grain

CALGARY, Nov. 3.—(CP)—Removal of the price ceilings on oats and barley for export, an endeavor to have the United States tariff against feed grains lifted and an increase in the guaranteed basic price of flax from $2.25 to $3 a bushel were among the recommendations endorsed here yesterday by the 36th annual meeting of the United Grain Growers.

The recommendations were included in the company's statement of agricultural policy for 1942-43, and were approved by nearly 300 delegates representing local in the western provinces with membership totaling 35,000.

Referring to the recommendations regarding feed grains, the policy statement said:

OPEN NEW CHANNELS
 "It is not enough merely to produce in Canada an export surplus of feed grains. There must be opened up channels of trade not formerly in use, so that consumer of feed grains in the United States and dealers in and manufacturers of feed may become accustomed to the Canadian product."

Export of feed grains would contribute to the necessary increase in livestock in the United States, the policy statement said.

Disease Curbed
 HALIFAX, Nov. 3.—(CP)—The infectious disease situation in Nova Scotia has improved in the last few weeks. Health Minister Dr. F. Davis said yesterday. The infantile paralysis outbreak is "pretty well over," and outside of Halifax there is no epidemic of diphtheria anywhere in the province, he added.

New Guinea Gains Pressed by Allies

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Nov. 3.—(CP)—Allied troops "smelt aside strong enemy resistance" three miles west of Ovi in the New Guinea jungles, and are continuing the advance aimed at Buna, the Japanese coastal base which is being pushed steadily by Allied planes, a communiqué said today.

Now operating several miles beyond Kokoda, midway point across the 120-mile waist of New Guinea, the Allied troops were aided by their aerial artillery which not only blasted Buna and Ovi, but rained for up the coast to hit the subsidiary Japanese bases of Lae and Salamaua. These latter attacks obviously were to hinder any Japanese attempts to send sea-borne reinforcements to Buna.

Nile Valley Is Now Safe Say Experts

By EDWIN SHARKE
LONDON, Nov. 5.—(AP)—British military observers took an unusually enthusiastic view last night of the 8th Army's forward smash in Africa, saying flatly "Marshal Rommel is hard hit and the Nile Valley is saved."

Lt.-Gen. R. L. Montgomery's forces "have accomplished the objective of smashing the enemy military force," said the observers in commenting on the spectacular Allied successes.

"The greatest victory ever won by the British army in the western desert," the military observers took this optimistic view because of the nature of the communique. A bulletin of its scope, they said, would never have been issued except to announce a decisive result.

Gen. Montgomery's forces continued, "has applied a bit of strategy to the Germans used to success fully in this war—building up great reserves of power and then striking a tremendous blow with the one aim of destroying the Axis and air forces."

"Ground gains in this strategy are of secondary consideration."

Japan Massing Troops in China

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 5.—(AP)—A Chinese army spokesman said today the Japanese appear to be making large-scale military preparations in China, massing troops in five provinces, four of them running down inland China from the Mongolian border and one of them on the coast north of Shanghai.

He said Chinese intelligence reports said the Japanese are massing troops in the provinces of Hubei, Hunan, Shensi, Suiyuan and Shantung.

The spokesman said it is difficult to predict the enemy's objective until the drive starts.

The shooting was investigated by Cpl. H. L. Walker, R.C.M.P., and Dr. W. L. Chisholm, coroner, who ordered an inquest. Members of the jury were E. E. McAdam, O. Johnson, W. A. Hemmick, N. Drew, P. The Democrats elected 11 of the 32 government seats at stake, including that in Maine which elected Sept. 14, the Republicans won 17, the Democrats 13, and Progressives one. Two are still in doubt—in Idaho and Wyoming.

Counting holders, the Democrats now will have at least 23 governors, the Republicans 22, and Progressives one.

Technically of course the Democrats retained control of both houses of Congress. However, dependable working majorities cannot be counted on by the administration at all times when it is considered that party members will vote solidly, particularly on domestic questions.

H.B. Railway Is Paying Way

By E. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA, Nov. 5.—For the first time in its history the Hudson Bay Railway, which has assumed important strategic value to Canada under war conditions, is expected to pay its way in 1942, according to information available in Ottawa.

This $20,000,000 railway system, operated by the Canadian National Railways as a separate company under a Dominion guarantee, has cost the Dominion government up to half a million dollars annually in operating deficits in recent years.

In 1940, for instance, its operating expenses were reported as $430,470. During the fiscal year 1941-2, parliament appropriated $350,000 to cover its operating deficit and during the present fiscal year the sum is $400,000 was provided for the same purpose. But the war has brought a transformation in the traffic carried by the Hudson Bay Railway and its reported earnings each month now are far in excess of annual earnings in past years.

Gen. Peakes Tight-Lipped On Defences

replied: "Yes, I think that is a great slogan," Maj-Gen. Peakes repeated.

"I'll tell you something you could put in your story," the general continued.

REAL SECURITY
"You may say that I recently visited San Francisco. Not a single newspaper reported on my visit. New that is real security. And that's what we must come to. I think to be really safe in this war."

"Say, if you want to write a story, write one about the Edmonton Regiment overseas. I saw many of the boys just before I left for Canada," Maj. Archie Donald and Maj. G. Weston, both of the same unit, also in Edmonton before they left for overseas three years ago.

Maj-Gen. Peakes is on a tour of inspection of his command. It is his first inspection of the whole area since he was named officer in command.

He served overseas for nearly three years in the present war and was in command of the 1st Canadian Division, following promotion of General McNaughton to command of the Canadian Army overseas.

UNIQUE FEATURE
A unique feature of the visit of Maj-Gen. Peakes here Wednesday was that two high ranking officers of the Canadian army, both holders of the coveted Victoria Cross and the Military Cross were together.

Brig. F. M. W. Harvey, V.C., M.C., general officer commanding M.D. 13, is accompanying the Pacific Command chief on his inspection tour of military establishments in Alberta. Maj-Gen. Peakes was at one time general officer commanding M.D. 13.

OTHERS IN PARTY
Also in the party is Brig. W. H. S. Macklin, in charge of administration for the Pacific command and Col. D. G. E. Cunningham, M.C., G.S.O. M.D. 13, and R. F. Sells, aide de camp to Maj-Gen. Peakes. The party has visited establishments in Calgary, Red Deer and Camrose since coming to Alberta Thursday establishments in Edmonton will be inspected and in the evening Maj-Gen. Peakes will address active and reserve army officers at a dinner in the officers mess at the Prince of Wales Army.

Maj-Gen. Peakes was greeted on his arrival here by Lt.-Col. E. Brown, M.M., R.D., area commandant.

The years rest lightly on the shoulders of the heroic soldier, whose area of defence includes Edmonton. He is tall and slender and in his eyes, flash the fire of youth, despite the moulder years.

Maj-Gen. Peakes became known to his troops as "Fighting George" and a man "they would follow through hell." Yet he is one of the most modest of all Canada's military leaders.

Typical of his modesty was the speech he made to newspapermen when he was placed in command of the 1st Canadian division. It is as follows:
"I am not exactly accustomed to making pretty speeches, but you can say this: I am supremely proud of the great honour that has been conferred on me and I pray God I shall have the courage and good judgment to be worthy of that trust."

BORN IN ENGLAND

He was born in Watford, England, on February 26, 1888, and served as a private in the Bedfordshire Regiment before coming to Canada in 1906. After three years of farming in the west he joined the Royal North West Mounted Police and served three years in the Yukon.

He enlisted with the Second Mounted Rifles in March, 1911, and served seven months in France.

He served as a bombing sergeant and in April 1916 he was awarded his commission in the field. He soon was promoted to the rank of Captain and Major, and in January, 1918, to Lieutenant Colonel, as officer commanding the 11th Battalion.

He was awarded both the Military Cross and the Distinguished Service Order.
And then for "conspicuous bravery and skilful handling of troops under his command" in the attack near Passchendaele on Oct. 20 and 31, 1917, he won the highest order for gallantry that any British soldier can win, the Victoria Cross.

HELP OPERATIVE

"Quickly appreciating the situation, he captured and held this point thus enabling his further advance to be successfully pushed forward. He was entirely due to his determination and fearless personality that he was able to maintain his objective with the small number of men at his command against repeated enemy counter-attacks, which his flank was unprotected."

Home on Leave

Sub-Lt. Bruce C. Whitaker, R.C.N.V., who is spending a brief leave here with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. P. Whitaker of 10340 124 street. He has been on active service for several months. Born here he was educated at city schools and was graduated in law from the University of Alberta and was practicing his profession when he enlisted.

Getting Around

The Germans will resume their concentrated bombing of air bases in England. They will redouble their attacks on American shipping, using more submarines and long range aircraft, and in addition they may attempt direct bombardment of the American industrial plant.

In elaborating on this point, which is of course of great interest to all Canadians, as well as to the people of the United States, Col. Kneer states:

"The Germans now have planes with which they can raid the United States at any time they choose. So far the disadvantages to Germany of such raids have outweighed the advantages."

But whenever the chips go down between American and German air power the Germans certainly will attempt attacks on our aircraft plants, he predicts.

And when these raids come—if they do—they will not be directed at New York or Washington, in the opinion of the colonel.

And the targets most likely to be selected for the first large scale Trans-Atlantic blitz are of particular interest to Canadians, as is the route the Nazis are most likely to follow on their flight from Europe.

Here's what Col. Kneer has to say in this connection:

"I think the Germans will come by way of the Arctic from Norway and will strike our industrial region between Sault Ste. Marie and Niagara and perhaps go as far south as Pittsburgh. The first raid may strike the Ford plant at Willow Run or perhaps the extensive aircraft operations around Buffalo."

In view of what has happened in all naval operations where surface vessels have approached within range of shore-based aircraft in this war, it hardly seems likely that this continent will ever be in great peril of invasion by the older methods of warfare. When and if North America feels the full sting of modern war it will be through the air that the attack comes.

We think Edmontonians will be wise to continue with ARP drill.

Girls Are Needed For Depot Band

Thirty girls, between 18 and 45 years old, are urgently required to join the C.W.A.C. as handwomen.

It was announced Thursday by Capt. P. Brent, C.W.A.C. staff officer at district headquarters, M.D. No. 13, Calgary.

To be eligible for enlistment, girls must be either Category A or B. A knowledge of playing brass or reed instruments is preferred, but it was pointed out that girls who could read music, but were not proficient at playing band instruments, possibly would be accepted.

The C.W.A.C. band, which is at present being assembled and trained at Currie Barracks, Calgary, is to be posted to the C.W.A.C. Training Centre at Vermilion.

Any girls or young women who are interested are invited to either call in person or in writing to the staff officer, C.W.A.C., 85 Centre Rd., Calgary or their nearest army recruiting office for full particulars and information.

Barrister Dies

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Dr. James Byrne, 85, New York lawyer, former Chancellor of New York University and former member of the Harvard Corporation, died yesterday in his Park avenue home.

For a considerable depth mean while.

"His appreciation of the situation throughout and the report rendered by him were invaluable to his commanding officer in making dispositions of troops to hold the positions captured."

He showed throughout a serene contempt for danger and a profound sense of control and leadership.

He was wounded five times in the first Great War.

Recruit Group Is Successful In Northland

Air force-army cooperation reached a high of efficiency and cordiality recently when a combined R.C.A.F.-Canadian Army mobile recruiting mission toured the northland.

FO. W. C. M. Barrell, who was in charge of the R.C.A.F. party, shared the same car with the army recruiter on the tour, was enthusiastic about the results on his return here Thursday.

"We got a whole lot out of the trip and so did the army. We helped each other. I got and the plan went over big with the public," FO. Barrell stated.

The tour set a new mark for out of the city, with 46 applicants for enlistment interviewed and examined in a single day at Grande Prairie.

The applicants were both men and women.

Inquiries also were received from Americans working with the U.S. Public Roads administration on the Alaska Highway. An engineer from Louisiana and a highway worker from California sought information about joining the R.C.A.F.

MUCH INTEREST
The recruiting party went as far as Fort St. John, B.C., where they watched with great interest the terminating action in connection with the Alaska Highway.

In the R.C.A.F. party were FO. Barrell, PH. Lt. G. H. Smith, M.O., Sgt. Jack Gorman and Cpl. Christine McKinnon, (W.D.).

Company Sergeant Major B. M. Barnes of M.D. 13 recruiting staff made the tour on behalf of the R.C.A.F. and army each supplied one driver. The party was away 16 days.

Mr. Clarke is thought to be gravely ill.

Pilot Miller is accompanied by Air Engineer Archie Watt. The plane was expected back at Edmonton airport some time Thursday afternoon.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Reports from Greece said last night that the Germans are rushing three or four divisions of troops from the Russian front to Albania to aid Field Marshal Rommel.

Four trainloads of Nazi troops passed through Athens Monday at great speed on route to embarkation points for transfer to the island of Crete and then across the Mediterranean to Africa, these reports said.

Play by Play

BY PAUL
DAVID PRESTON

CHAPTER XVI
YOU look so sweet. Upon the seat—if we had another seat!

Of a bicycle built for two—of Duane Hogan and that, with interpretation, in a deeply Texas bass as he related in the same rhythm out toward the athletic field. Behind him clung what could have been mistaken for a child. She sat on the fender package carrier over the rear, her shapely legs held forward so they wouldn't touch the ground. Her dark curls reached hardly up to his shoulder. She slung to the exact uniform.

"I like it better this way," she laughed back at his sally. "If we really had a bicycle built for two, I'd have to hold you."

"So? You want a man to do all the work?"

"Sure thing!"

"Kings be a law against women."

"Men would soon repeal it."

"Whhhhh no they wouldn't!"

"Oh-h-h yes they would!"

You could cut up with this Duane Hogan, happily, youthfully, on the rare occasions when you could be alone with him. He never said very much, never talked like some men. But his strength and good humor pervaded his whole life. It was one reason why Blythe loved him. One reason for being frantic because he had never shown any love for her in turn.

"I'm gonna be disgraced if the gang sees me riding a girl's bike," he intoned now. "Towing a girl."

"It was your idea," she reminded him.

Hold Everything

"What's the straw for—machine gun notes?"

Laft A-Day

Spur

"I never could think. Papa always said I ought to be a—"

"No, you admit it!"

"Hush! Or I'll make him back off!"

"Nnnn!" He pretended to growl.

Back of their easy banter was the knowledge that each concealed serious thoughts. Duane faced a deadly earnest business of learning to fight in the air. More immediately, he nursed a burning desire to win a football game this week, because his beloved coach and friend, Pop Miller, was in some kind of trouble. Blythe had hinted of that trouble. He thought he understood. Pop wanted to beat State U. again, this time at a fly-ing field goal. And here he was sick in bed.

"Duane," she asked, surprisingly. "Do you have a pistol?"

"No, I haven't."

"Please, I'm not joking."

"Sure I have. But why?"

"Never mind. Would you lend it to me?"

"Whicha guns shoot? Japs?"

"I am not joking, Duane."

"Okay then, I'll bring it over tonight."

"Thanks so much."

"But I'm still curious. After all, Japs, a gun—"

"It's for Pop."

"I-I don't know. But, Duane—please! We're friends, you and Pop and I. You—your better just—trust us. And not say anything."

He considered that, peering in powerful, deliberate strides. "I'm in," he murmured. "Where I come from, pistols are used to—"

"I know. It scares me, too. But Pop asked me to borrow one. I told you Pop was in trouble, but I don't know enough to tell you what kind."

"You don't say?"

He stopped the bike, the better to talk to her. When he turned, his face showed deep concern.

"Listen, Bly," he spoke intently, low. "If Pop needs that, it means his life. I mean, if he's mouthing it help Pop wants, then let us use the gun. Get it!"

"Oh, Duane! No. No. No. I'll have to be his way. I'm afraid. Until—at least until we know more. I do know this much, he needs it for protection. And you must promise to say nothing. To go right out with the rest of the team, and be yourself. Understand?"

"Practice hard—and let everybody and keep the spirit up. Don't let anything spoli the team's morale, even if Pop shouldn't be able to."

He looked at her a long moment, then resumed pedaling again. And Blythe knew he would question her no more. He had already said a great deal more than was his custom. But the couldn't end it quite so strongly.

"Duane, it's kind of personal. I guess. But it concerns Pop and it concerns the team. And it concerns Nancy Hale."

She asked that last hint on purpose. Would he now show the "private concern" for the other girl?

Blythe wanted Duane kept on pedaling as if he had never said a word. Finally he said, calmly. "I'll stick around. The commandant has already said I could take my duties easy this week. He meant leave of absence, if needed. I'll stick around, Bly."

That's all he ever said about it, and Blythe herself volunteered no more. As to his feelings concerning Nancy, she had learned exactly nothing.

When Nancy had telephoned that note of urgency in her voice was definite. But Bly was almost afraid to face her again.

Afraid, this time, not because Nancy was making an admitted play for Duane Hogan's love, and had even asked Bly's help in winning him, but afraid because of what she had overheard on the stairs.

Nancy Hale had said "All right, when a gambler's agent had offered her to play football men! One of them—was Duane. Not only would Nancy sacrifice team spirit, friendship, all the finer loyalties, but for money she would even sacrifice her life. Bly's first quick impulse to expose Nancy had been stifled when she remembered baby Scooter Hale. And, too, there's just naturally something disagreeable about a faller. Run quick and get the police after the girl who had stolen her boy friend. No. Bly couldn't let herself to that. Not yet.

They were nearing Pop's office when Nancy ran outside to meet them. Both Duane and Bly sensed her concern.

"Bly," she began at once. "Duane—then—the field hospital called. Heavy Underwood is hurt. There was a plane crashout at dawn. He and the instructor both hurt. And—let Pop Miller is sick. It was obvious—the team."

The import of it was obvious. Heavy Underwood was the real power in the Lincoln football line. The great charging center. The team's third man, following only Nancy Duane and Duane.

Mckenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Earl Ackerman of San Francisco, president of the Pacific Bridge League, paid me a visit the other day. We went over the War Orphans Scholarships plan in detail, then drifted to a discussion of interesting hands, and this one came up.

Duplicate—None vul.
South West North East
1 ♠ 1 ♠ 2 ♠ 4 ♠
5 ♠ Double Pass Pass
Opening—10. 1 ♠

West won the opening lead and returned a diamond. Then the declarer led a heart, won in dummy with a ace, ruffed a small heart, then cashed the ace and king of trumps. Another small heart was ruffed, and West could do no more than cash his queen of clubs.

Ackerman said that if West had continued with a spade after the first trick, he could have defeated the contract. It looks as if it might be possible to cross-ruff this hand out, and you can have some fun, as we did, going over the hand. However, I think you will find in the end that the return of a spade is the only play that will defeat the contract.

Debunker

Noa Dogs
FOAM AT
AND ARE NOT AFRAID OF WATER

...about mad dogs are mostly blank. There is no truth to the idea that a mad dog can be told by dripping froth from the mouth, for dogs with rabies (hydrophobia) (rabies) do not show this symptom at all. Neither are such dogs afraid of water, as the name "hydrophobia" implies. They will drink water like other dogs. A dog with rabies is a sick dog, and the bite of any sick dog is dangerous. It is not true that if a mad dog is killed immediately after he has bitten a person, that person will not get rabies. This is just an old superstition.
